Federal Judge in Chicago Says That Alton Is

BONAPARTE'S PLEA ALL IN VAIN

Judge Tells The Jury That They Must Delve Further Into The Affairs Of The Alton And Other Manufacturers Before Stopping.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Sept. 24.—Attorney General Bonaparte today made a motion in the United States district court that the special grand jury called to consider the connection of the Alton road with granting rebates to the Standard Oil company of Indiana be discharged.
Was Refused
Judge Landis refused to discharge the grand jury as requested by Bonaparte, but instructed the jury to do no further duties to perform in connection with the Alton.
Is Instructed
He called the attention of the jury to statements recently made by James Moffett, president of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, in which the latter was reported as saying if the Standard was guilty of rebating every other manufacturer is guilty.
Wants Information
Judge Landis instructed the jury to investigate the conduct of other manufacturers and ordered the issuance of a subpoena for Moffett.
It was claimed by Bonaparte, whose letter was read to the court by District Attorney Sims, that Morrison, predecessor of Sims in office, had promised immunity to the Alton and the attorney general therefore claimed it was the duty of the government to see that no further steps toward the punishment of the railroad for its part in granting the rebates be taken. He, therefore, asked that the grand jury be discharged, the matter to be allowed to drop as far as the Alton is concerned.

PRESIDENT ENDS HIS SUMMER VACATION

Though on Vacation President Roose-

Trip West and South Soon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Several pounds heavier than when he arrived here in the summer and feeling in finest fettle as a result of his outdoor life, President Roosevelt will take leave of his summer home tomorrow, his intention being to make a hurried visit to Washington before leaving on his trip to the West and South.
Though he has enjoyed his vacation immensely it has not been all play and no work for him during the summer, for it is now known that during the past five or six weeks he has nearly completed his annual message. The message is practically finished and according to report it is the longest of American presidential messages. It is said that the message not only aims to set forth recommendations for the coming session of Congress, but also the republican policy for the campaign of next year.
The summer has been a very restful one for the President, in no summer in the past has he seen so few people. He is in the pink of condition for his Western trip, which will be the last one he will make before he ends his term as President, unless Secretary Taft should be nominated, in which case it is not at all improbable that the President will make a number of speeches in his favor.

NEW YORK IS AFRAID OF THE DEMOCRATIC HORDES

Fight For Control Of Tammany Promises To Be Most Bitter At Today's Primaries.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Sept. 24.—Predictions are rife among politicians that the legislative primary election here today will be the stormiest in recent years, owing to the intense feeling between the followers of Charles F. Murphy, Tammany's head, and the adherents of Mayor McCholgan. Preparations for any emergency have been made by the police, the sheriff, the board of elections, the district attorney and the democratic leaders. This morning John J. Dooley, a Tammanyite, and a candidate for the leadership of the twenty-third assembly district, was assaulted while on his way home by two unknown men. His skull was fractured and he was internally injured.
Mr. Dooley, who was injured, had been at his club, where the last preparations for the primaries had been made. His home is only a short distance away. One of the men threw a brick, which hit him on the head. He was being beaten, as he lay, when a passerby alarmed his assailants, who fled.
Two men and one policeman were hurt in a riotous disturbance in West 57th street just before the polls opened this afternoon. In this district there is a hot contest for the Tammany leadership.

BANKERS' CONVENTION TOLD MANY DEPARTURES TODAY

Interesting Session Of Men Prominent In The High Finance Of The United States.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 24.—Three sections of the American Bankers' association, those dealing with trust companies, savings banks and clearing houses, met here today in the annual convention. In the savings fund section addresses were delivered by Wm. Hanhart, New York; Alfred L. Atkin, Worcester, Mass.; L. Leroy Harwood, New London, Conn., and Wm. R. Croer of Cleveland.
Hanhart's Talk
William Hanhart, secretary of the savings bank section of the American Bankers' association, in a speech before a convention of the association today on "Uniform Laws for Savings Banks in the Various States" said that as many national banks had savings departments, conducted with the permission of the United States comptroller, these savings should be safeguarded and protected by national legislation. Mr. Hanhart suggested the desirability of a federal statute regulating the business under the following conditions:
"It is not possible, nor would it be desirable or fair, that savings banks should be preferred creditors but in permitting national banks to open savings departments the deposits received in this department should be segregated and invested in the usual estate savings bank proportion, that is, say, 60 per cent in loans on bond and mortgage on a 50 per cent valuation, and the remaining 40 per cent in United States, state, municipal and first mortgage railroad bonds. This would give a great security and stability to that branch of the business and at the same time, and to a certain extent, accomplish an object which has been the subject of much discussion within the last few years, that is, the investment of deposits in national banks in loans on real estate. Such legislation as I propose, whilst committing national banks to invest in realty loans, would permit them to limit the amount of such investments to 60 per cent of their savings deposits, and no one, I think, would seriously object to this.
"The cash reserves, I think, should be kept on the same percentage basis as their other deposits, although this is a matter that could be further discussed; a smaller reserve may be found to be quite sufficient. You are aware that in our large eastern savings banks 5 per cent cash reserve is considered a conservative one, and rightly so, for savings banks deposits, although usually paid on demand, yet are subject at any time, or may be made absolutely subject to a notice varying from ten to ninety days. I might here mention that the Connecticut law regarding savings departments exempts such deposits from the cash reserve provision, which applies to their commercial deposits.
"Another advantage of the proposed law would be that it would tend to settle to some extent the question of postal savings banks, which have so often been discussed this day by Mr. Harwood, because it would provide a safe depository for savings in many small places having a national bank, but where the conditions do not

MILWAUKEE MAY HAVE NEW LABOR TEMPLE

Carpenters' Union Will Meet To-

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24.—Will Milwaukee have a labor temple? That is the question to be decided tonight, very probably, when the carpenters' union of Milwaukee will hear the report of a committee in relation to this project. The question arose over a proposal on the part of the carpenters to build a temple of their own. Then all of the unions decided to get into the project if it is feasible.
The summer has been a very restful one for the President, in no summer in the past has he seen so few people. He is in the pink of condition for his Western trip, which will be the last one he will make before he ends his term as President, unless Secretary Taft should be nominated, in which case it is not at all improbable that the President will make a number of speeches in his favor.

Clark, Alden & company have put in a separator and smut machine of the Wyckoff & Barnard pattern which does its work perfectly. The Farmers mill may justly rank not only with the best in the city but in the state.

Before The Footlights

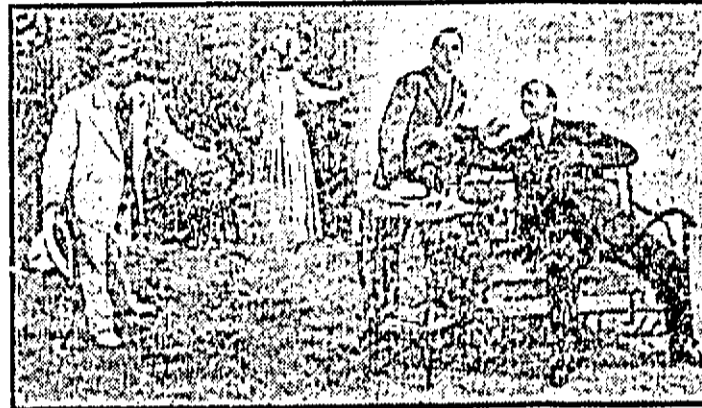

Gorgeous Gowns in "Before and After."

Much is claimed for the frocks of the actresses in "Before and After" which will be seen at the Myers Theatre Wednesday, Sept. 25, and which comes with a record of having amused New York for three hundred nights.

One gown, worn by Mrs. Kenyon Bishop, is perhaps the most remarkable. It was made by Dohr, of Paris, and is a sea pink foundation, with iridescent lace falling over the pink lace princess gown of tulle and chiffon, encased with white tulle. This robe is by Pagnin. In another act, Miss Chapple displays a pale grey travelling costume, with a sun shaded skirt and jacket. In the last act she has a costume of Asher of Bostonville, trimmed in point d'Alençon lace, with plum jet hat and brown silk shoes.

Miss Nellie Butler appears in a flowered silk Moll over tulle. The skirt is sun plaited and a trimmed

Seven Men and Two Girls Executed for Slaying Mill Owner.

Lodz, Russia, Sept. 23.—Seven workmen and two girls were executed here Monday by shooting, without trial, for participating in the murder of Marcus Silberstein, owner of a large local cotton mill, who was killed by his employees Sept. 13, because he refused to pay them for the time they were out on strike.

The new military governor of Lodz, Gen. Kuznetsov, who has been given special powers to prevent outrages, will exile every third workman of the 800 employed by the late Herr Silberstein for not having prevented the murder.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

No man in the world is so well advertised today as John D. Rockefeller, and possibly no man is more generally hated. Aside from the little circle of men who have suffered defeat, as the result of Standard Oil competition, and who feel that they have just cause for complaint, is the great mass of people who in some way feel that they have a personal grievance.

The fact is entirely ignored that the Standard Oil company is a close corporation, doing more business than the great American Steel company, with less than one-tenth of the capital stock. The Wall Street Journal, in discussing this feature of the business, says, very truthfully:

"Now in considering these Standard Oil profits it is well to dismiss the matter of capitalization. Capitalization doesn't mean anything or, at most, very little. The Standard Oil capitalization of $98,000,000 does not represent the actual substance of brains and money in the business. To say that the Standard Oil has earned approximately over 85 per cent this year, conveys no real significance.

"It would have been easy for Mr. Rockefeller, if he had chosen, to have made the Standard's capitalization $1,000,000,000, in which case this year's earnings would have appeared as only a little over 8 per cent. Those who are shocked by 85 per cent would be undisturbed by 8.5 per cent, and yet the actual return to Mr. Rockefeller and his associates would have been exactly the same in either case.

"The fact is that while the Standard, though it has in other respects persistently pursued the policy of corporation secrecy, never making any statement of earnings or financial condition until obliged to do so by courts or commissions, has never resorted to the device of increasing capitalization in order to conceal earnings."

Referring to the profits, another feature is brought out which is not often recognized, and that is the genius of the man, and what this genius has accomplished for others. The paper says:

"Now as to the profits. The law ought to be recognized that great profits are due to those who achieve greatly. If Mr. Rockefeller had invented a machine which would have reduced the necessary expenditures of every family in the United States 10 cents a week, is there anybody who would say that he was not entitled to $80,000,000 in six years if the legitimate profits of his invention amounted to as much as that? Now that is approximately what Mr. Rockefeller did. He established a business organization which by cheapening the price of oil in every part of the world actually reduced the necessary expenditures of every family.

"But in order to perfect this organization, Mr. Rockefeller adopted methods of competition which were not the rivalries of peace but the brutalities of war. The Standard, we are told by perhaps the highest authority in the land, profited literally by tens upon tens of millions of dollars by rebates, and these rebates were a method of destroying competition, thus creating for the Standard a substantial monopoly that does enable it to control the domestic market and build up for the United States a magnificent foreign trade.

"It would appear therefore that the immense Standard Oil profits are the result:

"1. Of a genius for business organization which has made Mr. Rockefeller the richest and one of the most famous men of his generation, and which has benefited mankind and immensely promoted the commerce of the country; and

"2. Of rebates, discriminations and wanton cutting of prices, methods of destroying competition, which are odious to the conscience of the times, although it must be confessed that the Standard has not been the only offender, but the most successful one.

"The New York World is justified, therefore, in asking whether the lowering of the price of oil 'compensates the American people for all the political, industrial and economic evils which the Standard Oil Co. has promoted.'

"That is a pretty difficult question to answer."

UNDESIRABLE CITIZENS

There may be a wide difference of opinion on the question of undesirable citizens, as the president discovered when he classified one or two species, not long ago, but the consensus of public opinion is a unit in declaring that America has no room for anarchists, and every effort to drive them from our borders, is heartily approved and endorsed.

It is gratifying to know that Emma Goldman, of Haymarket fame, is out of the country, and likely to remain. She is at present attending a conference in the land of her birth, and when she attempts to return, will be prohibited from landing on American soil.

This is as it should be. Anarchy is responsible for the death of two of our presidents, during the past two decades, and its doctrines are so damnable, that they should never be permitted to infect this free land.

Emma Goldman is a disciple of pronounced and virulent type. The fact that she is a woman, has protected her to large extent, but she is none the less a disturber of the most delinquent sort.

The country just now is flooded with a wave of socialism and erratic reform. The people responsible are misguided, and may be excused on that account. But anarchy is a different proposition. It advocates destruction by force, and destroys life and property to consummate its purpose, when occasion demands.

It is the disturbing element of the old world, driven out to find shelter in the new. Why this class of people were ever permitted to infect the land, is an unsolved problem, and why they are not weeded out, root and branch, is not easy to explain. The policy adopted in the case of Emma Goldman, should be adopted, and applied to all disloyal citizens. The nation can well afford to transport this class of undesirable citizens.

F. H. Hall, proprietor of the Beaumont House at Green Bay and ex-president of the Hotel Men's association, says that no action was taken on the question of raising rates. The necessity was considered but the matter left optional. The Beaumont is a good house and will continue to run at $2 per day.

The Rev. Frederick E. Hopkins, pastor of a Congregational church in Chicago, is gaining popularity, and national notoriety, by his attacks on society women who drink. Standing room only, and many turned away, is the order of exercises. Mr. Hopkins has evidently solved the problem of "Why people don't go to church."

The latest hazing escapade comes from Dubuque, Iowa. The victim was a new member of the high school "frat." He was subjected to the ordeal of spending a night in a coffin, in the cellar of a deserted house. The "frat" is playing a close second to college fraternities these days.

With Taft 10,000 miles away, and other candidates busy in cultivating the home field, enthusiasm for the genial secretary of war does not wane, and his chances for the nomination next year, are bright.

William Eaton, the invalid postoffice employee, who rescued two boys from drowning, at the sacrifice of his own life, has added another name to the long list of modest heroes.

What is being said in the corner space day by day is not only true but is of vital interest to every reader.

You probably remember the statement that you can save money by choosing Dr. Richards to do your dentistry.

Not long since mention was made of a party who came here from Shullsburg, Wis., to have Dr. Richards do the work, and after paying it, it cost him both ways.

Saved $10 on the dental bill from what the home dentist wanted to charge.

Now comes a party from another neighboring town for a lot of gold bridges-work, and after Dr. R. had fairly and squarely set his price, it was revealed that he was $25 under what the home dentist wanted to charge for the job.

Of course he got the work to do, he guarantees his work to be of the very highest quality.

This being true, why pay twice what is necessary when by choosing him for your dentist you get equal work at a much less fee?

FOOTBALL GAME HERE SATURDAY

HIGH SCHOOL ELEVEN HOPES TO PLAY ITS INITIAL CONTEST.

WITH BELOIT ACADEMY BOYS

Team Will Be Light but Fast—Many Grade Teachers to Attend Coning Convention—Supt. Duell's Prospects Bright.

That the Janesville High school is to be represented by an unusually light team on the gridiron this fall is already a foregone conclusion, but that it will be an unusually agile and fast aggregation is the comforting hope of Coach E. J. Hammons and the student supporters. Every afternoon, these days, the team is being put through a course of sprints and the candidates for positions, though mostly green timber, are showing up well in their respective places. Dietrich, a new man, seems to be the favorite candidate for center; Woodworth, a veteran, and Kennedy and Benson are out for the guard positions; Chubb, another veteran, Granger, and Neumann, are trying for the tackle; Neumann, a member of last year's eleven; Cunningham, Fiehl, and Underwood, are placed at the right and left ends of the line. Horkey, the veteran halfback, will probably have Keefe as his running partner; and Tippet and Church are competitors for the fullback position.

Schedule of Games.
An effort is being made to schedule a game here next Saturday with Beloit Academy and to bring the Beloit school for the first time here for a game on Oct. 5. The team goes to the Out-of-City to play Evansville High school on October 12 and Beloit High school plays here on the following Saturday, Oct. 19. On November 2, Janesville plays a return game with the Beloit High school at Beloit, and Ft. Atkinson is to play here on Nov. 23. Two open dates in November are still to be filled and Madison or Lake Geneva may be taken on for contests.

Hard at Work.
Aside from the football activity, the literary societies of which there are four—the Laurean, Philanthropic, Rusk Lyceum, and Forum—are beginning their year's work and the orchestra is re-organizing. Otherwise the regular studies are engrossing most of the time of the students, declamatory and oratorical contests and similar events being purposely placed much later in the year in order that so many may become well grounded in their work before taking up any of the "side lines."

The Coming Convention.
Among the teachers of the city more than usual interest is manifested in the state convention which is to be held on Nov. 7, 8, and 9, at Milwaukee. Supt. Duell's candidacy for the office of president of the state association and the fact that two special sessions are to be held for grade teachers and the grade schools of the southern part of the state and many in the northern section are to be closed for the first time for this purpose, are largely responsible. Supt. Duell, together with Supt. Pearce of Milwaukee, Supt. Nelson of Racine, and Supt. Meyer of Oshkosh, compose the committee of arrangements which is to prepare the grade teachers' portion of the program. They expect to secure several eminent speakers for addresses.

Supt. Duell's Candidacy.
Supt. Meyer will be Supt. Duell's strongest opponent in the race for the presidency, though both are warm friends. The Janesville man is receiving words of encouragement from all sections of the state and enough has been said to make him confident of the prospects for his carrying off the honor are exceedingly bright.

Plenty of Janesville Readers Have the Same Experience.
Don't neglect an aching back. It will get worse every year. Backache is really kidney ache. To cure the back you must cure the kidneys.
If you don't, other kidney ills follow—
Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease.
A Janesville citizen tells you how—
The cure is easy:
A Janesville citizen told of a box of Thomas Burgess, millwright of 15 Park Ave., Janesville, Wis., makes the following statement concerning Doan's Kidney Pills:
"I had a pain in my back for nearly ten years. A dull ache and don't-on feeling often completely laid me up. It was very bad at night, and I have awakened from a sound sleep feeling as if a ton weight was lying on my back, and for a few moments I would be afraid to move for fear of sharp shooting pains which usually struck me at such times and went to the very quick. I had to use my hands and arms to turn over in bed; my back was weak. The urine was in very bad shape also, and gave me trouble at night as I had to get up a number of times to pass it. There was considerable redness and the secretions were discolored. I had used a number of remedies at different times without apparent benefit. I at last decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the Peoples' Drug company, and soon after I began to use them I began to improve. In a few days the backache left me and as I continued the treatment the irregularities of the secretions were corrected and I have enjoyed better health ever since, having had no return of any form of kidney trouble."

Forecast of Fall and Winter Fashions in New York

Evidently the millinery bill this season will be large, as never were hats more gorgeous, more expensive, (and he it whispered) more conspicuous. The manhood shape in white or light hued felt, or in black satin, moire, or plain-colored velvet, is well-nigh supreme, considerably larger than the high-class hats of the summer, and fitting back to show a fluffy pompadour roll. With any of these hats, purple morning-glories of exaggerated size, are the favored trimming, set on high wire stems, with or without ribbon loops as an accessory.
Other Extremes.
A dashing black satin hat showed morning glories in live colors, the crown and brim being almost covered while its neighbor was a white felt with shaded crimson velvet morning glories and blue satin ribbon mowed in loops, the shades of both flowers and ribbon being so soft, that there was no clash of color. A pink satin hat had a band of gay pompadour ribbon to match, or are perfectly plain, and the ordinary box coat, or a considerably longer shape, or the "Princess Coat" are all on view in the best houses. Walking skirts will again be short, and the coming Fall and Winter like the two preceding seasons promise to be notable for the popularity of colored footwear, for street use. Golden Brown Kid Color 21 is the name of the shade that has superseded the more vivid tans with the class of women who like exclusive styles. It is said that the tonalities have difficulty in turning out this shade fast enough to meet the constantly increasing demand for it. There is a certain elegance about shoes of this color that no tan shoe can claim, and it does not increase the apparent size of the foot as do the lighter shades.
The independent cloak is an elegant affair, and the majority are of black chiffon, broadcloth, black velvet or heavy point de sole. Long, lately trimmed around the shoulders, on the fronts and cuffs by embroidery and drapery. Sleeves are large and drooping at the wrists with a trimmed cuff. A black lace, made of silk braid with a pleated edge, is a cloak. So far, no collars are used, leaving room for neck pieces and bows.

Fancy Broadcloths.
Striped and plaid broadcloth are the fabric for the street suit, coming in beautiful blendings of soft, dark colors, and are of every light weight, in compliance with fashion demands. The status of plain broadcloth, as the leading high-class material of the season, is settled by the fact that Lord & Taylor are showing three hundred different shades, including novelties and standard colors. The new colors are Caladonian green, pomeau (a brilliant shade of crushed strawberry) Copenhagen blue, copper, blonde (a blending of yellow and brown) laurel (laurel green) topaz and violet (church purple). In addition are various tints of brown, navy blues and wine color.
Silk Waists.
Plaided silk waists will be a special feature this season, the cut-away neck and sometimes the fronts, faced by plain silk harmonizing with the plaid, and edged by narrow fancy braid. Tabs of the plaid-colored silk, either straight or slanting, show to advantage on a white, tucked blouse-front, with three or four small brass buttons near the edge. Plain silk blouses finish the three-quarter sleeves. Some waists have two sets of tabs, one of larger size turning back, and smaller ones trimmed with buttons turning in the opposite direction. An attractive waist has fronts cut in semi-circular shape and others are in points.

OLD MAN ACCUSED OF Uxoricide.
Peter Clark Locked Up at Saginaw, Mich., for Shocking Crime.
Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 24.—Peter Clark, 70 years old, was brought to this city Monday night by Under Sheriff P. J. Cunningham and locked up in the county jail charged with the murder of his wife. His home is about five miles from Merrill.
About 9 o'clock Sunday night Clark aroused a neighbor and informed him that his wife had fallen and killed herself, having struck her head on a cream separator. Investigation showed that the woman's head had been bent to a pulp and there were finger marks on her throat and face. The sheriff found a bloody club with hair clinging to it.
It is now recalled that 27 years ago Clark was taken into custody after the burning to death of his brother and the latter's wife. The two brothers had quarreled but nothing ever developed to connect Peter Clark with the fatal fire.

The Opal Serpent

By FERGUS HUME,

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

CHAPTER VIII.

ONE of the first people to call on Miss Norman was a dry, wizened monkey of a man, who announced himself as Jabez Paul, the solicitor of the deceased. He had, so he said, executed Aaron's legal business for years and knew all his secrets. Yet when questioned by the police he could throw no light on the murder. But he knew of something strange connected with the matter, and this he related to the detective who was now in charge of the case.

"This officer was a chubby, agreeable, pleasant faced man, with brown eyes, brown hair and brown skin. Also, to match his face, no doubt, he wore brown clothes, brown boots, a brown hat and a brown tie—in fact, in body, face and limbs and dress he was all brown, and this prevalent color produced rather a strange effect."

"The brown man, who answered to the name of Hurd, or, as he genially described himself, 'Bully' Hurd, saw Mr. Paul, the lawyer, after he had examined every one he could lay hold of in the hopes of learning something likely to elucidate the mystery. 'What do you know of this matter, sir?' asked the brown man pleasantly."

"Paul screwed up his face in a manner worthy of his monkey looks. He would have been an absolute image of one with a few nuts in his cheeks, and as he talked in a chattering sort of way, very fast and a trifle incoherent, the resemblance was complete. 'I know nothing why my esteemed client should meet with such a death,' he said, 'but I may mention that on the evening of his death he called round to see me and deposited in my charge four bags of jewels. At least he said they were jewels, for the bags were sealed, and of course I never opened them.'"

"Can I see those bags?" asked Hurd anxiously.

The legal monkey hopped into the next room and beckoned Hurd to follow. Shortly the two were looking into the interior of a safe wherein reposed four bags of coarse white canvas sealed and tied with stout cords. "The odd thing is," said Mr. Paul, chomping his words and looking so absurdly like a monkey that the detective felt inclined to call him "Jacko," "that on the morning of the murder and before I heard anything about it a stranger came with a note from my esteemed client asking that the bags should be handed over."

"What sort of a man?"

"Well," said Paul, fiddling with his sharp chin, "what you might call a seafaring man. A sailor, maybe, would be the best term. He was stout and red faced, but with drink rather than with weather, I should think, and he rolled on his bow legs in a somewhat nautical way."

"What name did he give?" asked Hurd, writing this description rapidly in his notebook.

"None. I asked him who he was, and he told me—with many oaths, I regret to say—to mind my own business. He insisted on having the bags to take back to Mr. Norman, but I doubted him—oh, yes," added the lawyer slyly, "I doubted him. Mr. Norman always did his own business and never in my experience of him employed a deputy. I replied to the unknown nautical man—a sailor, as you might say, by a certain snarl of mine, which, as you know, is a nautical drink—well, Mr. Hurd, I replied that I would take the bags round to Mr. Norman myself and at once. This office is in Chancery lane, as you see, and not far from Gwynne street, so I started with the bags. When I reached Gwynne street I found that Mr. Norman was dead and at once took the bags back to replace them in this safe, where you now behold them."

"To take his leave," asked Hurd, rising to take his leave.

Paul screwed up his eyes and indicated his cheeks and wriggled so much that the detective expected an acrobatic performance and was disappointed when it did not come off. "I really can't be sure on that point," he said softly. "I have not yet examined the papers contained in the safe of my deceased and esteemed client. He would never allow me to make his will."

"Well, I'm off to look for your nautical gentleman," said Hurd.

"Do you think he is guilty?"

"I can't say," said Hurd, smiling. "And I never speak unless I am quite sure of the truth."

Hurd had learned a great deal about the opal brooch from Sylvia and Deborah, and what they told him resulted in his visiting the Charing Cross hospital to see Paul Beecot. The young man was much worried. His arm was getting better, and the doctors assured him he would be able to leave the hospital in a few days, but he had received a letter from his mother, whom he had informed of his accident. She bewailed his danger and wrote with many tears as Paul saw from the blotted state of the letter that her domestic tyrant would not allow her to come to London to see her wounded darling. This in itself was annoying enough, but Paul was still more irritated and excited by the report of Aaron's terrible death, which he saw in a newspaper. So much had this moved him that he was thrown into a high state of fever, and the doctor refused to allow him to read the papers. Luckily Paul, for his own sake, had somewhat calmed down when Hurd arrived, so the detective was permitted to see him. He sat by the bedside and told the patient who he was. Beecot looked at him sharply and then recognized him.

"You are the workman," he said, astonished.

"Yes, Mr. Beecot, I am. I hear that you have not taken my warning regarding your friend, Grexon Hay."

"Ah, then you knew his name all the time?"

"Of course I did. I merely spoke to you to set you on your guard against him. He'll do you no good."

"But he was at school with me," said Beecot angrily.

"That doesn't make him any the better companion," replied Hurd. "See here, Mr. Beecot, we can talk of this matter another time. At present, as I am allowed to converse with you only for a short time, I wish you to tell me about the opal serpent."

Paul sat up, although Hurd tried to keep him down.

"I will if you will tell me about Miss Norman. I'm engaged to marry her, and I hear she is ill."

"Oh, she is much better," said Hurd, pausing, pencil in hand. "Don't distress yourself. That young lady is all right, and when you marry her you'll marry an heiress, as I learn from the lawyer who does the business of the deceased."

"I don't care about her being the heiress. Will you take a message to her from me?"

"Certainly. What is it?" Hurd spoke quite sympathetically, for even though he was a detective he was a human being with a kindly heart.

"Tell her how sorry I am and that I'll come and see her as soon as I can leave this confounded hospital. Thanks for your kindness, Mr. Hurd. Now, what do you wish to know? Oh, yes—the opal serpent, which, as you say, and as I think, seems to be at the bottom of all the trouble. Listen! And Paul detailed all he knew, taking the story up to the time of his accident.

Hurd listened attentively. "Oh," said he, with a word of meaning. "So Mr. Grexon Hay was with you? Hurd! Do you suppose he pushed you into the pond on purpose?"

"No," said Paul, staring. "I'm sure he didn't. What had he to gain by acting in such a way?"

"Money, you may be sure," said Hurd. "That gentleman never does anything without the hope of a substantial reward. Hurd! We'll talk of this when you're better, Mr. Beecot. You say the brooch was lost?"

"Yes. It must have slipped out of my pocket when I fell under the wheels of that machine. I believe there were a number of loafers and ruggers creatures about, so it is just possible I may have been picked up. I've sent an advertisement to the papers."

Hurd shook his head. "You won't hear," he said. "How can you expect to when you know the brooch was used to keep the dead man's lips?"

"I forget that," said Paul faintly. "My memory—"

"Is not as good as it was," Hurd rose. "I'll go, as I see you are exhausted. Goodbye."

"Wait! You'll keep me advised of how the case goes?"

"Certainly. If the doctors will allow me to, Goodbye." And Hurd went away very well satisfied with the information he had obtained.

The clue, as he thought it was, led him to Wargrove, where he obtained useful information from Mr. Beecot, who gave it with a very bad grace and offered remarks about his son's being mixed up in the case, which made Hurd, who had taken a fancy to the young fellow, protest. From Wargrove Hurd went to a certain

TIDEWATER PIPE IN STANDARD GRIP

HOW TRUST ARRANGED DIVISION OF BUSINESS REVEALED.

HOLDS MUCH OF STOCK

Minutes of Stockholders' Meeting Whose Action was Repudiated are Unsealed—Archbold Denies Reorganization Rumor.

New York, Sept. 24.—The ways and means by which the Tidewater Pipe Company of Pennsylvania came under virtual control of the Standard Oil company were unfolded Monday in the hearing of the government's suit against the oil combine. The affairs of the Tidewater company were disclosed by the testimony of Robert Benson, president of the company, and from a mass of records and contracts. The Standard was shown to own at present 31 per cent. of the Tidewater stock and, by an agreement entered into in 1883 between the two companies, the oil business was divided in such proportion that the Tidewater did 11 1/2 per cent. and the Standard 88 1/2 per cent. President Benson testified that since the agreement in 1883 the business of neither the Tidewater Pipe company, nor the present parent company, the Tidewater Oil company, had materially increased.

Titusville Minutes Unsealed.

An interesting incident of the day's hearing was the unsealing of the minutes of a stockholders' meeting held in Titusville, Pa., on January 17, 1883, the action of which in selecting officers was repudiated at a meeting next day in Philadelphia of the managers of the Tidewater company, who directed that the existing officers remain in control and that a suit be brought in court to set aside the action of the Titusville meeting.

Counsel for the government obtained evidence from Mr. Benson and the records of the company that certain interests had held the Titusville meeting without issuing a call to the stockholders as provided for by the company's by-laws. The litigation in the Pennsylvania courts that followed the Titusville meeting resulted in a decision against these officers.

Standard's Stock Was Voted.

Mr. Benson was asked to examine the record and see if any stock now held by the Standard Oil interests had been voted at that meeting. Mr. Benson said that 1,814 shares of stock voted at that meeting came into possession of gentlemen whom they considered to represent Standard Oil interests and that this stock in 1900 was transferred by William G. Rockefeller to H. C. Folger, who still owned it.

Mr. Benson gave testimony to show that, under existing contract with the Standard, of 95 per cent. of oil refined by the Tidewater company, 77 per cent. was sold to the Standard and the remaining 23 per cent. was sold in a territory in which the Standard was not interested. The president of the Tidewater company, when asked what disposition was made of the remaining 23 per cent. refined for domestic purposes, said that the Standard secured 27 per cent. of it.

Reorganization Tale Denied.

John D. Archbold, vice president of the Standard Oil company, was prompt in issuing Monday an authoritative denial of a statement, made earlier in the day, on apparently credible authority, that the Standard Oil company contemplated a reorganization of its affairs.

Mr. Archbold gave out at the offices of the company here a denial of the story saying: "The published statement to the effect that the Standard Oil is about to confer as to changing its name, extending its capitalization and so forth, is unauthorized and untrue."

PEACE TERMS ARE ACCEPTED BY MOORS

THREE IMPORTANT TRIBES ARE PLEGGED TO ENFORCE THEM.

HOSTILITIES AT AN END

Features of the Agreement Made Between Gen. Druide and Delegates from the Morocco Natives.

Paris, Sept. 24.—Peace has been declared in Morocco. The delegates of three important tribes have accepted the French peace overtures and will see that the terms of the agreement are carried out. Hostilities are now at an end.

The government Monday evening received with great satisfaction a dispatch from Rear Admiral Philbert, commander of the French naval forces in Moroccan waters, saying that as a result of the conference Monday at Gen. Druide's headquarters, between the French naval and military commanders and 19 chiefs, representing the Oulasseyan, Zenata and Zayida tribes, the three tribes have accepted unconditionally the peace terms offered by France.

Terms That Are Accepted.

These terms are as follows: Hostilities shall cease at once; Gen. Druide may make military reconnoissances throughout the territory of the three tribes to satisfy himself that the pacification is complete; the tribes engage themselves to disperse and chastise all armed bodies that may assemble in their territory with hostile intent; every native found in the possession of arms or munitions of war within ten miles of Casablanca shall be handed over to the sherrifian authorities, condemned to imprisonment and fined $200; the tribes shall be held responsible for the carrying out of the previous stipulation; every native detected in smuggling or using arms shall be punished; the delegates of the tribes undertake to surrender the authors of the outrages upon Europeans of July 30 and, pending judgment, their goods shall be seized and sold irrespective of the indemnity which is to be paid, the amount of which be fixed by the Moroccan government; the Casablanca tribes shall pay a large indemnity, the part of each tribe to be apportioned according to the length of time it related the French. In addition, the Chaouia tribes shall pay a contribution toward the harbor works at Casablanca.

To secure the carrying out of this convention, two notables of each tribe shall be given up as hostages. The delegates of the Oulasseyan, Zenata and Zayida tribes immediately named their hostages and signed the capitulation.

Credit Mainly Due to France.

The campaign which France has just brought to a successful close in Morocco was started early in August under the mandate given to both France and Spain by the Algeiras agreement to maintain proper police regulations in the sea ports of Morocco. The direct cause of the movement was the murder July 30 of seven Europeans at Casablanca. France and Spain acted with the consent of the powers, and no power interfered with their operations, although at one time Germany gave evidence that she viewed the landing of a numerous French force in Morocco with apprehension, not to say, distrust.

BANKERS CONVENTION

warrant the establishing of a bank doing only a savings business. I think our savings banks are nearly all opposed to postal savings banks, and I would now refer to the many reasons for this opposition, but to my mind the one paramount objection to the Government Postal Savings banks is that our government should not go into the banking business, although it has already established itself in it to some extent through the money order system.

P. Lecky Harwood, treasurer of the Merchants' Savings Bank, of New London, Conn., declared the strongest demand for postal savings banks comes from sections where improper and inadequate state laws have permitted dishonest bankers and irresponsible banking institutions to betray their trust. As a corrective agency and on which might obviate the necessity of establishing a system of postal savings banks, Mr. Harwood suggested:

"I have thought for some years that some sort of general governmental supervision of savings institutions would be a good idea. By this, I do not mean that the government should assume direct charge or supervision of the banks themselves, but rather a general oversight and advisory attitude toward the state governments, which should, by all means, have the direct supervision of the banks in their territory. This would have the effect, perhaps, of bringing about better and more uniform investment laws and better examination and supervision of the banks, where today each state has its own methods of handling this business, some good, some poor. The expense to the government would be so small as to hardly be worth mentioning. The cost to this government of postal savings banks would undoubtedly be very great. The savings banks of this country are conducted at an annual expense of about one-fifth of one percent per dollar of deposits, and it is extremely doubtful if this could be matched by the government, even if for many years of operation. A great disadvantage which has been repeatedly brought to attention is the fact that the money which may be deposited with the government is immediately taken away from the locality to which it belongs, and that locality deprived of its use in development of its business and property. This, of itself, is a most serious objection. The Western or Southern community, to which the postal savings bank idea would appeal, needs all its money for its own development and use. This money should be gathered together and loaned back to the communities on mortgages and notes. The rapid development of the Eastern states has been due in no small part to this principle, and the West and South should not be deprived of these advantages. It is necessary, therefore, to devise some plan for keeping this money near home. The mutual savings bank of the East is perhaps considered the ideal savings bank and the process of establishing and building up these institutions is simple in the extreme. Were the workings of these institutions better understood, they would no doubt meet with favor in all parts of the country, and a government savings bank commission could be of great service in spreading information of this kind, wherever there seems to be a desire for savings depositories."

GREAT NORTHERN DEFEATED

JUDGMENT IN REBATE CASES IS AFFIRMED AT DENVER.

Hepburn Act Held Amendatory in Opinion By the Federal Court of Appeals.

Denver, Col., Sept. 24.—In an opinion announced Monday by the United States circuit court of appeals sitting in Denver, the judgment of the district court for Minnesota against the Great Northern railroad in the rebate cases was practically affirmed.

The circuit court holds that the Hepburn act is an amendatory act and not a repealing act, that insofar as it repeats or reproduces portions of the Elkins act it continues them in force and makes no break in the law, and that insofar as it omits or changes provisions of the Elkins act it repeals them.

The act of granting rebates was admitted by the Great Northern at the trial and the only question presented by the defendant was whether or not the Elkins act of 1903, making it an offense and fixing punishment for granting rebates, was repealed by the Hepburn act of 1906 in such a way that thereafter there could be no prosecution of offenses committed prior to the appeal. The district court ruled against this contention of the railway company and hence the appeal.

The decision was written by Judge Vandewater and is concurred in by Judges Adams and Kinnor. The case originally was a criminal prosecution against the Great Northern Railway company in the district court of the United States for Minnesota, and the offenses charged in the indictment consisted of granting rebates upon each of fifteen distinct carload shipments of corn and oats shipped by a Minneapolis dealer in Minneapolis to Seattle during the months of April, May, June and July, 1906. The schedule of the railway at that time fixed the rate upon these commodities at 50 cents per 100 pounds, and the rebates granted consisted of allowances ranging from 15 to 20 cents per 100 pounds.

The maximum fine in this case is $20,000 for each offense, and there are over a dozen cases of great importance awaiting the result of the decision handed down Monday, notably four Kansas City cases in which the Armour, Cudahy, Swift and Morris packing companies were each fined $15,000 for accepting rebates.

No Better Time

As never before THE BIG STORE is prepared for an army of buyers. For months we have been planning the FALL AND WINTER CAMPAIGN. We own a stock of merchandise not only the largest and most complete we have ever shown, but we placed orders months ago, made liberal contracts with the largest manufacturers and leading importers, and the PRICES at which we bought goods were MUCH LOWER than today's figures. We buy in LARGE QUANTITIES and have opportunities to see lines of goods that are NOT SHOWN to other merchants in Janesville, in fact to but few in Wisconsin, as they cannot buy LARGE enough quantities. The result is, "We Keep The Quality Up" but DO NOT have to raise the prices ABOVE what other merchants HAVE TO GET for qualities NOT AS GOOD. Our large and constantly increasing trade proves that people appreciate QUALITY.

Our stocks of the following goods are in excellent shape: Silks, Dress Goods, Velvets, Gloves, Mittens, Hosiery, Laces, Trimmings, Knit Goods, Underwear, Shawls, Corsets, Flannelettes, Outings, Gingham, Percales, Prints, Dress Linens, Table Linens, Napkins, Towels, Yarns, Batting, Sheetings, Blankets, Comforts, Curtains, Embroideries, Linings, Oilcloth, Carpets, Rugs, Linoleum, Furs, Ready-to-wear Garments, Linens for fancy work, Fancy Linen Pieces for every occasion. Such an enormous, well selected stock should surely arrest the attention of every citizen.

I Can Prove To You that the Dodd & Struthers Copper Cable Lightning Rod is a POSITIVE PROTECTION from lightning.

People are waking up to the fact that the Dodd & Struthers Rod, from start to finish—both in its pure copper material, its construction, and the way in which it is sold and put up—is as different from the old-time jointed iron rod as a modern high grade watch is from the ancient hour-glass.

Did you read the recent bulletin of the Wisconsin State Fire Marshal, which states that three-fourths of all farm fires are caused by lightning?

And the same bulletin states that a scientific copper lightning rod, properly put up, is a positive protection against lightning.

Do you know that over two hundred thousand buildings have been equipped with Dodd & Struthers Lightning Rods, and not one building properly rodged with this rod was ever struck by lightning?

I've some more information along this line that I'd like to give you.

'Twill cost you nothing—and it may be the means of saving you thousands of dollars in fire losses.
